Fires, Looting Hit Toledo Area

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Scores of police equipped with riot gear put down roving gangs of young Negroes who used guerilla-like hit-and-run tactics to loot and set fires in widespread areas of Toledo Monday night and early today.

Police—armed with riot guns and wearing white helmets—made about 50 arrests before the disturbances which started in a predominantly Negro area of the near South Side were brought under control shortly before dawn. Most of those arrested were juveniles.

Up to a dozen injuries, most of them caused by thrown bottles and bricks, were reported. There were no serious injuries.

Fire officials said at least 18 fires were set by firebombs, including one just after dawn this morning. Firemen also were hampered by dozens of false alarms.

Police broke up juvenile gangs roaming the streets at points as far apart as five miles.

Toledo, about 50 miles south meanwhile had learned of a visit scheduled for Saturday by civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

During the height of the disturbances early this morning, when city officials met with Negro leaders, an effort was made to cancel the visit.

"It's not King's philosophy that we object to, it's the timing and the fact that there is so much trouble in Detroit, and now Toledo," said Bert Silverman, director of the City Board of Community Relations.

"Had King arrived here last week, we would not have been concerned."

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was invited to speak before the organization's local chapter.

The disturbances picked up after midnight.

"It's starting to hit all over," said a police dispatcher, who helped call in 50 off-duty patrolmen.

Many of those arrested were caught looting, police said. Most of the arrests were made in the South Side Door Street area where the initial trouble started when a crowd of young rowdies gathered.

Looting began along a two-block area of Door Street, police said, and rapidly spread.

At least two fires were started when, witnesses told police, firebombs were thrown on top of buildings.

The most serious fire was at a furniture store where there was $2,000 damage.

Police expressed growing concern later when cars began roaming throughout the city. Gangs began to appear in all areas. Police ordered some bars to close around midnight.

Earlier Monday, police said they received several calls from businessmen who said they were refusing to sell guns and ammunition to strangers.

Authorities long have complained that many persons from Michigan cross the state line and come into Toledo to buy guns. When purchased in Michigan, guns must be registered. In Ohio, they are not.

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Twenty Negro youths, most of them juveniles, were arrested Monday night after three store windows were broken in the Lima business district.

Police said rocks were thrown through the windows and that the group of boys was rounded up without trouble. The juveniles were charged with delinquency, those 18 or over with being suspicious persons.

Tornado Hits Northern Ohio

Elderly Pair Hurt, Homes Damaged

SALEM, Ohio (AP)—A tornado that hit near East Fairfield, 12 miles southeast of here, Monday injured an elderly couple and damaged several homes, the Columbiana County Sheriff's Department reported.

Several other funnel clouds were sighted in the area, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau at Cleveland.

Alfred Heald, 77, and his wife, Alice, 76, of Route 2, Columbiana, were injured when the tornado knocked their home from its foundation.

Mrs. Heald was reported in fair condition at Salem City Hospital with a fractured wrist. Her husband was released following treatment at the hospital.

No other injuries were reported in the area.

The sheriff's department said there was extensive damage to East Fairfield and Columbiana. Trees were uprooted and power lines also were knocked down.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said a turkey farm was wiped out on Ohio 7 in East Fairfield. It also reported that Ohio 8 was blocked by debris.

A tornado warning was issued by the Cleveland Weather Bureau for nine Northwest Ohio counties—Williams, Fulton, Lucas, Defiance, Henry, Wood, Seneca, Huron and Hancock—late Monday night and early today.

The bureau said a funnel cloud aloft was reported by an off duty weather observer near Waterville in Lucas County at 1:20 p.m.

Earlier Monday, two men were injured and some house trailers blown over when strong winds and hail hit a housing development in Rock Creek, 14 miles south of Ashtabula. The trailers were empty.

At St. Clairsville in Belmont County, 14 dogs and six cats were killed in a fire caused by lightning at the D.B. McBride Kennel.

Cardinal Cardijn Dies in Belgium

LOUVAIN, Belgium (AP)—Joseph-Leon Cardinal Cardijn, founder of the worldwide Christian Working Youth movement, died Monday night in Louvain at the age of 84.

He was the second member of the College of Cardinals to die this week, and his death reduced the college to 16 members. Thomas Cardinal Tien, the only Chinese member, died in Formosa Monday.

Puerto Rican Disturbance Spreads Out

Bronx Settlement Experiencing Looting, Burning

NEW YORK (AP)—Rioting Puerto Ricans, dodging their own rooftop snipers and police bullets, charged again early today through the slum streets of Spanish Harlem, setting fires with tossed cans of stolen oil and looting neighbors' tiny shops and grocery stores. Two persons died in the violence.

For the first time since they began early Sunday, the disorders jumped the Harlem River from Manhattan and spread to a largely Puerto Rican section of the Bronx. Looting broke out and a youth was shot in the arm.

More than 1,000 policemen in helmets and steel vests chased roving bands of 2,000 youths through a 125-square block area of Manhattan, taking cover to empty their revolvers at snipers hidden in tenement windows, then thrashing rioters with their nightsticks.

It was full-scale rioting and the worst of three straight nights of lesser disturbances in El Barrio—the neighborhood, in Spanish—cramped, steamy home to a large segment of the city's 850,000 Puerto Ricans.

It took a heavy rain at 3 a.m. to do what police found so difficult—get the unruly mobs off the streets and indoors.

A 44-year-old Puerto Rican woman, hit by what officers said was a .22-caliber bullet, died shortly after a young Puerto Rican man was found fatally injured with a broken neck. Dozens were injured, including five policemen.

The rioting again stopped short of the unmarked frontiers that separate Spanish or East Harlem from the luxury apartments of the upper East Side and the squalor of central Harlem's Negro masses.

Gleaming paths of shattered glass showed the progress of the riot as it spread from 95th Street to 121st Street along Third Avenue, bulging in some spots to Second and First avenues on the east and Lexington, Park and Madison avenues on the west.

With preliminary damage estimates in Detroit already over $150 million, official estimates of monetary losses around the nation totaled over $169,83,000 in an Associated Press survey.

Some victims, in despair, plan to get out of trouble spots as soon as possible; others are starting work on new plans to minimize the chance of future outbreaks; still others, stunned, just don't know what to do.

Tampa, Fla., merchants joined a biracial commission in a training program to open employment to Negroes as a peace move.

A Buffalo, N.Y., banker summed up: "Many of the merchants would love to leave the area, but they have no place to go."

Of the $169 million, $1 million was in Newark, N.J., $3 million in Cincinnati, Ohio, $1 million in Tampa, Fla., $300,000 in Dayton, Ohio, $200,000 in Buffalo, N.Y., $100,000 in Erie, Pa., and $100,000 in Cairo, Ill. The Department of Housing and Urban Development said in Washington that no federal funds are available to help repair or rebuild.

Bone, a tool and die maker who sailed out of New York more than two weeks ago, was found Saturday near Boon Island by two Portsmouth men. Bone complained of back pains.

LBJ Makes Appeal To Nation on TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson pleaded to law-abiding citizens across the nation to help put down rioting and lawlessness after he sent federal troops into riot-torn Detroit "with the greatest regret."

In a brief television broadcast ending after midnight, Johnson announced his decision to heed Michigan Governor George Romney's request for federal forces. From Capitol Hill came political bickering and speculation in the wake of riot developments.

"I am sure the American people will realize," said the grim-faced, bespectacled President, "that I take this action with the greatest regret—and only because of the clear, unmistakable and undisputed evidence that Gov. Romney and the local officials have been unable to bring the situation under control."

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark stood just behind the President as he called on "all of our people, in all of our cities, to join in a determined program to maintain law and order" and to show "that riots, looting and public disorder will not be tolerated."

Johnson's order and his appeal to a nationwide television audience came hours after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield put administration weight behind a Senate Republican move to probe rioting in U. S. cities.

But Mansfield struck back at Republican Policy Coordinating Committee charges that the United States is "rapidly approaching a state of anarchy" and that Johnson is failing to recognize and deal with racial violence.

The GOP committee, which includes congressional leaders, governors and former presidential candidates, suggested violence and destruction in Detroit may be the outgrowth of "organized planning and execution on a national scale."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was among members who voted unanimously for the statement. It demanded a congressional investigation of means to end civil disorders.

There was speculation about the possible political effects of Romney's request for federal troops—and it seemed likely to burgeon in the wake of the President's television statement.

In his brief message, Johnson mentioned seven times that Romney had initiated the action by requesting the troops. The President stressed the federal government had to respond "since it was called upon by the governor of the state and presented with proof of his inability to restore order."

Long before Johnson spoke, Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he was "unpleasantly surprised" that Romney asked for troops. Russell said National Guardsmen should have been able to quell the uprising.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in Whittier, Calif., that participation of federal troops was "not a healthy thing."

Greenfield Captain Will Go on Trial

Prisoner Murder Charge Lodged In Vietnam

AN KHE, Vietnam (AP)—Army Pfc. David L. Woods, 20, of Lawton, Okla., was sentenced to a year in prison Monday for the fatal shooting of a Vietnamese prisoner.

Woods was convicted of voluntary manslaughter by a seven-officer general court-martial sitting at the 1st Air Cavalry Division's base camp at An Khe. The sentence now will be reviewed by higher military authorities.

Testimony at the trial gave this account of the shooting:

Woods' platoon picked up Nguyen Chi, a Vietnamese man, in a village near Bong Son last April 4. He was not interrogated, but because he was of military age and was found in an area where the Viet Cong was known to be strong, he automatically became a Viet Cong suspect.

A few hours later, while the unit was setting up camp for the night, the platoon leader radioed the company commander, Capt. Paul C. Ogg, of Greenfield, Ohio, and asked him what should be done with the prisoner.

Members of the platoon testified that Ogg told the platoon leader, 1st Lt. John L. Patrick Jr., of Wytheville, Va., to kill the man.

Woods testified he did not hear the radio transmission. He said Staff Sgt. Walter Griffen told him to pick up his weapon because "we're going to get a body count."

Spec. 5 Raul Garcia, of Houston, Tex., marched the prisoner to an embankment, according to the testimony, and Woods said he and Griffen raised their rifles and someone yelled, "Ready—Aim—Fire."

The two soldiers fired and the man's body tumbled over the embankment, it was testified. Woods claimed he aimed to miss the man.

Woods' attorney, Capt. Stephen Barash of Yonkers, N. Y., said Woods was only following orders and that, as the youngest and lowest ranking soldier involved in the incident, he was "low man on the totem pole."

Garcia was convicted of unpremeditated murder two weeks ago and sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and four years in prison. He testified as a prosecution witness against Woods.

Griffen, Patrick and Ogg all were charged with premeditated murder and will be tried here this week.

Maddox Appoints Negroes To Board

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Gov. Lester Maddox has appointed 15 Negroes to serve on Georgia draft boards.

The state currently is the defendant in a federal court suit demanding that more Negroes be appointed.

The small number of Negroes on the boards long has been a point of dissatisfaction for civil rights organizations.

DETROIT (AP)—Truck lights blacked out in combat readiness, crack Army paratroopers moved into Detroit today to put down fierce rioting that has devastated the nation's fifth largest city.

"They have been ordered to use minimum force necessary to complete their mission," said Lt. Gen. John Throckmorton, their commanding officer.

President Johnson ordered in 1,800 men of the 101st and 82nd Airborne divisions as his deputy on the scene said the situation after two days and nights worsened sharply.

Some 3,000 were paratroopers, rushed from Kentucky and North Carolina earlier in the day, camped in pup tents at an air base minutes from the city.

The paratroopers moved as deaths mounted swiftly, hundreds were hospitalized, and thousands left homeless. The downtown was paralyzed as sniper fire and destruction sealed main arteries.

The death toll stood at 21. Nearly 200 people were hospitalized.

Even as the soldiers—some 40 per cent of them veterans of Vietnam—deployed in Detroit, reports came of racial unrest in other Michigan cities. At Pontiac, two Negroes were shot and killed and a sniper's shotgun pellets wounded a policeman.

Rolling through streets bathed in the glow of more than 800 fires set by arsonists and looters, the paratroopers joined 7,000 police and National Guardsmen dueling with snipers.

As the second night of violence ended, however, the character of rioting appeared to have changed. Arson and looting, set off by Negroes early Sunday and later joined by whites, dropped sharply.

Sniper fire increased, with most of it concentrated on police and guardsmen.

Automatic rifle fire that cracked in the streets off and on during the night, ended before dawn as heavy sieges were lifted at three police precincts.

Guardsmen used a tank and two big trucks to smash a siege by snipers at the East Side 5th Precinct near where a fireman was shot down while battling a blaze and less than a mile from exclusive, all-white Grosse Pointe.

The battle there and an earlier two-hour firefight several blocks away in which two guardsmen were wounded dramatized a sudden shift in rioting to miles from where it erupted Sunday with a police raid on a Negro night club.

Associated Press photographer Eddie Adams, a veteran of front line photography in Vietnam, saw the two guardsmen gunned down in the East Side firefight at an intersection.

Carmichael Plans To Be in Havana For Conference

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Stokely Carmichael, American Black Power advocate, plans to attend next week's Havana conference aimed at brewing revolutions, the Cuban radio said today.

Carmichael confirmed in London his plans to attend the conference as an observer, said a broadcast monitored in Miami.

"We are going to be reunited with you in Havana because we think the Cuban victory is our victory and the courage of the Cuban people inspires our fight," the radio quoted Carmichael as saying.

Leftists and revolutionaries from throughout Latin America have begun arriving in Communist Cuba for the conference sponsored by the Latin American Solidarity Organization—OLAS—an outspoken anti-United States body.

Carmichael left Britain Monday for Prague amid reports he was on his way to North Vietnam. For more than a week in Britain, Carmichael spoke at meetings in the sections of London where most Negroes live.

Pope Paul VI in Turkey On 2-Day Peace Mission

ISTANBUL (AP)—Pope Paul VI arrived in Moslem Turkey today on a two-day mission to discuss peace in the Middle East, the holy places of Jerusalem and ways to end 900 years of division between Roman Catholic and Orthodox Christians.

Within two hours of his arrival, the Pope conferred privately with President Cevdet Sunday and other top officials. Informants said Pope Paul appealed to them to mediate the dispute between Israel and the Arabs.

The 69-year-old Pope was the first pontiff in 12 centuries to visit the former citadel of Eastern Christianity. The last was Pope Constantine I in 711.

Traveling on a four-engine commercial jetliner, Pope Paul arrived three days after a disastrous earthquake spread widespread destruction in Anatolia, southeast of Istanbul, killing at least 86 persons.

Ahead of the Pope was a crowded schedule, including a major meeting with Patriarch Athenagoras, spiritual leader of the world's 150 million Orthodox Catholics, to discuss ways of healing the nine centuries of break between Orthodoxy and Roman Catholicism. The patriarch shares the Pope's dream of one day rejoining the two faiths.

Government leaders set up two meetings with the Pope, at palaces near the waterway dividing Europe and Asia, before stepping out of the picture for the religious and "private" part of the visit.

The white-bearded patriarch is the spiritual leader of 150 million Orthodox faithful in the world, but his direct authority here extends over fewer than 80,000 Turkish orthodox of Greek descent. The Pope has both spiritual and jurisdictional authority over 500 million Catholics.

Athenagoras in Turkish eyes stands for Greece and the other side of the Cyprus issue.

Pope Paul and Athenagoras launched a serious dialogue in the Christian unity spirit when they met in the Holy Land in 1964 during the Pope's first trip abroad. They embraced and talked twice in two days. The Pope said later that Catholic-Orthodox links should never have been broken.

Since then both sides have moved closer, overcoming initial suspicion and reluctance within the Greek part of Orthodoxy.

The two church leaders set as the major topic for their Istanbul meeting the question of how to set up an expert study of the theological and church law matters that divide the Orthodox and the Catholics. They also agreed to talk about the status of Jerusalem and the holy places which have been in Israeli hands since the Israeli-Arab war in June.

It was believed that Radcliffe had gone to the scene in response to a telephone call, apparently to appraise the property for a client.

Goodyear Contract Tentatively Set

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Tentative agreement on a new three year contract was reached in Cincinnati Monday by negotiators for the United Rubber Workers union and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

The agreement covers some 21,250 URW members in 11 cities across the country. It left only Uniroyal, Inc., among the five largest rubber producers still without a contract settlement.

50 Miners Die In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Fifty African miners were killed today and 49 injured in a pileup at the head of a gold mine shaft, the Anglo-American Corporation announced.

None of the injured were believed in critical condition, the company said.

The accident happened when workers reporting for their shift apparently surged forward in a subway and crushed miners in front of them against a turnstile controlling access to elevator cages. The subway runs from a hostel to a mine shaft.

The mine is in Carltonville, about 35 miles southwest of Johannesburg. It is part of the important West Witwatersrand gold fields.

Nation Tries To Sum Up Riot Damage

NEW YORK (AP)—With no end in sight to the nation's summer of racial violence, weary victims of rioting in cities across the country are adding up their economic losses and planning for the future.

With preliminary damage estimates in Detroit already over $150 million, official estimates of monetary losses around the nation totaled over $169,83,000 in an Associated Press survey.

Woods' platoon picked up Nguyen Chi, a Vietnamese man, in a village near Bong Son last April 4. He was not interrogated, but because he was of military age and was found in an area where the Viet Cong was known to be strong, he automatically became a Viet Cong suspect.

A few hours later, while the unit was setting up camp for the night, the platoon leader radioed the company commander, Capt. Paul C. Ogg, of Greenfield, Ohio, and asked him what should be done with the prisoner.

Members of the platoon testified that Ogg told the platoon leader, 1st Lt. John L. Patrick Jr., of Wytheville, Va., to kill the man.

Woods testified he did not hear the radio transmission, he said Staff Sgt. Walter Griffen told him to pick up his weapon because "we're going to get a body count."

Spec. 5 Raul Garcia, of Houston, Tex., marched the prisoner to an embankment, according to the testimony, and Woods said he and Griffen raised their rifles and someone yelled, "Ready—Aim—Fire."

The two soldiers fired and the man's body tumbled over the embankment, it was testified. Woods claimed he aimed to miss the man.

Woods' attorney, Capt. Stephen Barasch of Yonkers, N. Y., said Woods was only following orders and that, as the youngest and lowest ranking soldier involved in the incident, he was "low man on the totem pole."

Garcia was convicted of unpremeditated murder two weeks ago and sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and four years in prison. He testified as a prosecution witness against Woods.

Griffen, Patrick and Ogg all were charged with premeditated murder and will be tried here this week.

Maddox Appoints Negroes To Board

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Gov. Lester Maddox has appointed 15 Negroes to serve on Georgia draft boards.

The state currently is the defendant in a federal court suit demanding that more Negroes be appointed.

The small number of Negroes on the boards long has been a point of dissatisfaction for civil rights organizations.

DETROIT (AP)—Truck lights blacked out in combat readiness, crack Army paratroopers moved into Detroit today to put down fierce rioting that has devastated the nation's fifth largest city.

"They have been ordered to use minimum force necessary to complete their mission," said Lt. Gen. John Throckmorton, their commanding officer.

President Johnson ordered in 1,800 men of the 101st and 82nd Airborne divisions as his deputy on the scene said the situation after two days and nights worsened sharply.

Some 3,000 were paratroopers, rushed from Kentucky and North Carolina earlier in the day, camped in pup tents at an air base minutes from the city.

The paratroopers moved as deaths mounted swiftly, hundreds were hospitalized, and thousands left homeless. The downtown was paralyzed as sniper fire and destruction sealed main arteries.

The death toll stood at 21. Nearly 200 people were hospitalized.

Even as the soldiers—some 40 per cent of them veterans of Vietnam—deployed in Detroit, reports came of racial unrest in other Michigan cities. At Pontiac, two Negroes were shot and killed and a sniper's shotgun pellets wounded a policeman.

Rolling through streets bathed in the glow of more than 800 fires set by arsonists and looters, the paratroopers joined 7,000 police and National Guardsmen dueling with snipers.

As the second night of violence ended, however, the character of rioting appeared to have changed. Arson and looting, set off by Negroes early Sunday and later joined by whites, dropped sharply.

Sniper fire increased, with most of it concentrated on police and guardsmen.

Automatic rifle fire that cracked in the streets off and on during the night, ended before dawn as heavy sieges were lifted at three police precincts.

Guardsmen used a tank and two big trucks to smash a siege by snipers at the East Side 5th Precinct near where a fireman was shot down while battling a blaze and less than a mile from exclusive, all-white Grosse Pointe.

The battle there and an earlier two-hour firefight several blocks away in which two guardsmen were wounded dramatized a sudden shift in rioting to miles from where it erupted Sunday with a police raid on a Negro night club.

Associated Press photographer Eddie Adams, a veteran of front line photography in Vietnam, saw the two guardsmen gunned down in the East Side firefight at an intersection.

Carmichael Plans To Be in Havana For Conference

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Stokely Carmichael, American Black Power advocate, plans to attend next week's Havana conference aimed at brewing revolutions, the Cuban radio said today.

Carmichael confirmed in London his plans to attend the conference as an observer, said a broadcast monitored in Miami.

"We are going to be reunited with you in Havana because we think the Cuban victory is our victory and the courage of the Cuban people inspires our fight," the radio quoted Carmichael as saying.

Leftists and revolutionaries from throughout Latin America have begun arriving in Communist Cuba for the conference sponsored by the Latin American Solidarity Organization—OLAS—an outspoken anti-United States body.

Carmichael left Britain Monday for Prague amid reports he was on his way to North Vietnam. For more than a week in Britain, Carmichael spoke at meetings in the sections of London where most Negroes live.

ISTANBUL (AP)—Pope Paul VI arrived in Moslem Turkey today on a two-day mission to discuss peace in the Middle East, the holy places of Jerusalem and ways to end 900 years of division between Roman Catholic and Orthodox Christians.

Within two hours of his arrival, the Pope conferred privately with President Cevdet Sunday and other top officials. Informants said Pope Paul appealed to them to mediate the dispute between Israel and the Arabs.

Radcliffe Said Threatened Once Before

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Investigators said Tuesday the mystery slaying of certified public accountant Paul Radcliffe last Wednesday was the second attempt upon the man's life.

The latest fact in the baffling murder case developed when a client of the 53-year-old accountant told Detective Sgt. Bill Lavery of the Delaware County Sheriff's Department of a conversation held just a few weeks before the murder.

The client, a contractor who asked his identity be withheld, told the officer that Radcliffe seemed unusually upset when he visited him last May 19.

When the client inquired what the trouble was, Radcliffe reportedly replied, "I'm a little bit shaken; I was asked to inspect a building this morning and a man came at me with a shotgun."

Radcliffe's body was found behind an abandoned building along the Olenangy River in Delaware County. The auto had been pushed over a bank in an apparent effort to conceal the crime.

It was believed that Radcliffe had gone to the scene in response to a telephone call, apparently to appraise the property for a client.

International Quaker Meet Seeks Guidance on Strife

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The silence built up. It hung over the big, crowded hall, deepening, lengthening. A vast hushed throng from many nations waited for the leading of the Lord.

Out of such quiet waiting and listening, an international gathering of Quakers today sought some guidance on easing the ills of the world, particularly its racial strife and the Vietnam war.

What clues might come out of the silent listening was uncertain, and the first reactions seemed somewhat marginal, yet pertinent.

"You can never tell what may spring up, and when it does it can change the whole tenor of the meeting," said Clyde Johnson, a Richmond, Ind., delegate to the World Conference of Friends.

"That unpredictability is part of the genius of the movement, one of the most significant and exciting things about it," he added.

The silent, expectant interludes, a hallmark of Quaker worship, Monday night marked the opening of the 10-day assembly of about 1,200 delegates from 38 countries, the first world meeting in 10 years of the

Rep. Gilmartin's Son Critically Injured in Fall

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The 7-year-old son of State Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin D - 81 Youngstown, Mahoning, was critically injured Saturday in a fall from the rear of a camp-in trailer in Illinois.

The Illinois Highway Patrol reported that the accident occurred on Interstate 80 west of the Marseilles interchange in LaSalle County.

The boy, Brendan, was being treated for a skull fracture and multiple abrasions at Rayburn Memorial Hospital, in Ottawa, Ill.

The highway patrol said Brendan and his brother, Thomas, 14, were riding in the trailer. The patrol said Thomas told them that he and Brendan awoke and started dressing. Brendan found something in his shoe, Thomas said, and opened the rear door of the trailer to shake it out. He was thrown to the road. Thomas said he tried to alert his parents but was unable to get their attention.

A motorist following the trailer told the Gilmartins what had happened. The legislator and his wife took the boy to the hospital.

Writ Denied By Common Pleas Court

A legal action to secure the freedom of John Henry Pernell, accused by Tennessee authorities of the murder of his wife, was denied by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer Monday.

A writ of habeas corpus was filed by Pernell's attorney seeking his release from the Pickaway County Jail where he has been held since June 6, when apprehended by local authorities on a fugitive warrant.

Judge Ammer denied the writ. Pernell's attorney, John W. Wurts immediately noted they intended to appeal not only the judge's ruling, but also Pernell's extradition to Tennessee.

The attorney contends the local court has no jurisdiction on the matter since an earlier hearing was held in a United States District Court in Dayton.

AUTHORITIES were in Circleville from Tennessee Monday to return Pernell to that state. However, he is still being held in the Pickaway County Jail pending the outcome of his appeal.

Since he is charged with first degree murder in Tennessee, Judge William Ammer has ordered him held without bail.

James W. Legg, 541 Mowrer Road, was fined $50 and costs Monday in Municipal Court for engaging in a fight.

Writ Denied By Common Pleas Court

A legal action to secure the freedom of John Henry Pernell, accused by Tennessee authorities of the murder of his wife, was denied by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer Monday.

A writ of habeas corpus was filed by Pernell's attorney seeking his release from the Pickaway County Jail where he has been held since June 6, when apprehended by local authorities on a fugitive warrant.

Judge Ammer denied the writ. Pernell's attorney, John W. Wurts immediately noted they intended to appeal not only the judge's ruling, but also Pernell's extradition to Tennessee.

The attorney contends the local court has no jurisdiction on the matter since an earlier hearing was held in a United States District Court in Dayton.

AUTHORITIES were in Circleville from Tennessee Monday to return Pernell to that state. However, he is still being held in the Pickaway County Jail pending the outcome of his appeal.

Since he is charged with first degree murder in Tennessee, Judge William Ammer has ordered him held without bail.

WASHINGTON (AP) — How do Negro riots start? Republican party leaders suggest violence like that in Detroit may result from a conspiracy organized, planned and carried out on a national scale.

But the national government at this moment has no evidence of such a conspiracy, and it has had weeks to check. Nevertheless, Republicans called for a congressional investigation.

They accused President Johnson of failing to deal with the riot problem. But Monday night he sent U.S. troops into Detroit.

The riots in one city after another have pretty much followed a pattern. A Negro mob forms to denounce a certain police action. Some times the mob melts. But in other cases it suddenly goes berserk. It becomes, like any violent mob, mindless and plunges into destruction.

But what triggers the mob? Some individual or group of individuals, perhaps shouting something like, "Let's tear the place down." As one government official explained: "There's always a loudmouth to start something."

But what kind of individual would do the triggering? Without question it would be a criminal, either a person with a criminal record or one who is potentially criminal and suddenly found his chance to perform.

Anyone who has had enough dealings with criminals to understand the criminal mind knows a criminal's concern is not a choice between right and wrong but how to get away with what he wants to do.

Nothing provides as much safety as a mob for a man who wants to kill, loot or burn. In the midst of mob action he is practically anonymous, which makes it tough for the police to pin anything on him directly.

But are all the members of a mob criminals? Definitely, those who commit criminal acts are. Earlier this year the President's crime commission in its study of riots said:

"They are a sort of moral license to the compulsively or habitually criminal members of the ghetto community to engage in their criminal activities and to ordinarily law-abiding citizens to gratify such submerged tendencies toward violence and theft as they may have."

New Jersey's Gov. Richard J. Hughes called the Newark riots a "criminal insurrection." And Monday night Detroit's Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh said the wreckage of his city was "an explosion of the completely lawless element."

In a special report to the nation Monday night, Johnson also called the conduct criminal.

And if anyone doubts this all he has to do is remember that some of these riots, which may have been triggered by the action of some individual policeman, went on night after night when the mobs found the police couldn't stop them.

The President's commission acknowledged that riots are complicated and that one way of explaining them is ghetto conditions. It recommended action to eliminate those conditions.

The commission listed racial discrimination, commercial exploitation, economic deprivation, and police misconduct as examples of what participants in earlier riots said they were protesting against.

Yet in the South, where Negroes were kept in an inferior condition longest, there have been no big riots this year. Perhaps those willing to riot there feared the police retaliation in the South would be swift and rigid.

It hardly seems an accident the rioting has been limited to Northern cities where there is division among the whites on police restraint and the concern for Negroes is the greatest. In other words, the North was a softer touch than the South.

At the same time, despite the rioters' expressed hostility toward "Whitey," these Northern riots have not been racial in the sense that white neighborhoods were the first to be invaded and demolished, if at all.

In Newark, for example, the destruction was aimed mainly at the Negro areas, a condition which supports the belief the riots were criminally inspired.

And, further, in Detroit white thieves joined Negro looters without any reports that the Negroes turned on them. They were criminals together.

Eseterel Show Eye-Grabbing As Always

PARIS (AP)—One can always count on Eseterel to put on an eye-grabbing show. He opened the Paris winter fashion season Monday by dropping the hemline to calf length and never higher than four inches below the knee.

And he came up with a new caped silhouette.

Capes step forth in every length and always top straight funnel-shaped culottes styled like calf-length gaucho trousers.

A favorite theme is plus four or bloomed cycling pants all stopping at midcalf and brushing the top of high black vinyl or the new guinza stretch fabric topped boots. Spanish toreador hats or almond shaped "beanies" are invariably worn with a tight hood, black or white, adding to the drama.

Eseterel plays on this theme and the result is a woman appearing like a secret police agent ready for action.

Eseterel plays with caps and styles them in moods. They vary from the chic black and white king-size wool check, sweeping out as the wearer moves with careful tailored detail, to others in plain black recalling Aristide Bruant, French chansonnier immortalized by Toulouse-Latrec.

NEW YORK (AP) — The proposed increase in income taxes, which President Johnson said he hoped Congress would consider next month, will be the biggest test of the New Economics since 1964.

It will have a catalytic effect on the chemistry of the economy, and its success or failure may be measured in political terms also. If it is based on a miscalculation, it could damage both the economy and the future of Lyndon B. Johnson.

Should the tax dosage be ill-timed or of an improper amount, it could depress the economy at a political sensitive time, just before the 1968 elections.

It would also discredit the contention of the New Economics that the economic cycle is manageable, that through government spending and taxing the ripples of expansion-recession can be flattened out.

The New Economics claimed a notable victory in 1964 when corporate and personal income taxes were lowered. The move was controversial and even contradictory, for it sought to raise revenue by lowering taxes.

But it seemed to work. At least the New Economics claimed credit for prolonging the economic expansion. And seemingly in proof of their theory, more rather than less revenue was obtained because the tax base broadened.

This was considered a stunning victory for Walter Heller, then the administration's chief economist, who defied the conventional theory that the need for higher revenue could be met only by raising taxes, not lowering them.

The present situation is unlike 1964 in several ways, the most pronounced difference being the intent. The Johnson economists wish not only to raise revenue but also to control rather than stimulate the economy.

This makes the job even tougher than in 1964. As Gardner Ackley, now the chief administration economist, views the situation, taxes cannot be lowered because this would fuel an inflationary boom.

The administration's theory is that the nation is once again on the verge of an economic expansion. This expansion, expected later this year, must be controlled, or inflation will burn up the value of currency.

A huge budget deficit heightens the dangers of inflation, for a deficit means that the government is trying to buy more than it can immediately pay for. This waters down the value of money. It sends too many dollars chasing goods. And how? By raising taxes. This brings in the revenue while draining off the excess dollars.

The critical factor in this reasoning is the validity of the forecast of a strong economic expansion.

Some economists criticize as false the assumption that we are on the edge of a boom. The fact is that the resurgence has not yet begun, and there is no positive evidence that it will come. Forecasts have a tendency to be wrong.

Any faith that the present forecasts are correct is lessened a bit by past misreadings. In 1966, for instance, most economists believed some tax action was needed, but the administration failed to propose one.

Now that it has decided to act, the consensus may not be as strong. The consequences, however, are just as large—and much, much larger in the political sphere.

EARLY LAST JANUARY an unfortunate secretary in Oxford, Ohio, had a lot of explaining to do. Her boss, who had decided to give his 56 best customers and friends subscriptions to a weekly news magazine as Christmas gifts, turned the job over to his secretary, and went on his merry way. December 28 he received 56 copies of the magazine in the mail. That's when he realized she had filled out the orders in reverse. What his customers and friends received for Christmas was a bill covering a year's subscription for HIM!

It was an angry husband who confronted his wife some days after Thanksgiving last year. "I am aware," he grumbled, "that you have to devise ways to use up our Thanksgiving dinner leftovers—but turkey on CORN FLAKES is going too far!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A six-year-old girl was brought to my office for examination. The parents seemed terribly upset, even after I assured them that the gland in the child's neck was of no importance and did not require surgery.

I make it a point never to discuss a child's problem in her presence. While she was being kept busy by my nurse, I told the parents that I was concerned by the fact that their child spoke so poorly. It came as a particular surprise to them because they seemed to enjoy her muddled "baby talk."

At the age of six, speech is most important in children's relationships with each other. Children have no patience with other children with whom they cannot communicate.

When I pointed out how important it would be to seek some speech therapy for their child the father paused and said, "Maybe that's why she's doing so badly in her French school."

My astonishment was so great that I could hardly believe what I heard. This child, unable to make herself understood in her native English, was actually a student at an all-French school. Imagine the added pressure on this child trying to keep up with French, too.

The early training of a child in more than one language has some advantages, perhaps more in foreign countries than in the United States. Certainly, in this case, the additional language only served to compound the child's frustrations and her difficulties with other children.

Fortunately, this problem was readily corrected with speech training and a change of school. Isn't it amazing how easily parents can fall into a troublesome trap in their efforts to give to their children "the most?"

The fears of patients are often so great that they fail to really understand the assurances that a doctor wishes to give them. Sometimes they delay by months coming to a doctor's office because they do not want "to hear the truth" about a condition they are sure they have. Almost always they are wrong and find they have been living in a frightened world because they could not come face-to-face with their imagined problem.

This was well illustrated by a middle-aged woman who came to my office because of hoarseness. It quickly came out that she was sure that she had a cancer of the larynx. She was wrong.

She had no tumor, no growth, no cancer and no serious disease. At first she was relieved and even tearful because she had been living for so many months with the dread fear that she had a cancer.

Then a rather unusual thing occurred. I repeated the fact that she did not have any serious trouble and suggested that there was no reason for my having to see her again. To most people this would have been very comforting, but not to her.

The new frightened look in her face reflected her thinking which, to her, might have sounded like this: "Perhaps he doesn't want to see me again because he considers my case hopeless." On the other hand if I had said, "Come back and see me in three months," she might have said to herself, "I'm sure he suspects something serious is going to develop."

Although doctors cannot always "win" in their relation-

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
Walter Denman, attendance officer for the Circleville School System, resigned his post after 17 years' service.

Oral Polio vaccine was being made available to all residents of the Circleville and Pickaway County area by the Medical Assn.

Marilyn Hay and Nancy Wilson were scheduled to leave for Ohio University to attend a Farm Bureau Conference.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Cash prizes amounting to $140 awaited winners in the flower show at the fair.

Violent windstorms and thunderstorms caused much damage in the city and county as one barn was struck by lightning and resulted in $20,000 damage.

Lee L. Lott, a man who specialized in wild driving to thrill patrons at the fair, said the Circleville drivers outclassed those in Columbus and other cities.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
An old show record drive was begun by the local post of the American Legion.

Thirty-seven Pickaway County farmers received loans on their wheat crops on the basis of $1.21 per bushel.

Ten eighth grade pupils received diplomas in graduation exercises at Wayne Twp. School.

Lyndon Johnson, according to the pollsters, has been regaining some of his old popularity in recent weeks, presumably because he came off lucky in the Midwest crisis. But popularity polls, at this point, mean next to nothing.

Some deep tides are running in this country, and they do not bode well for the old coalition which has served LBJ's party so well for over thirty years.

Item One is the attitude of the rank and file of labor. The recent "in depth" survey which so appalled AFL-CIO President George Meany, who reportedly shoved it in his desk rather than talk about it, bespoke a vast disillusion among workers in their feeling about labor's dependence on government benefits. The rank and file showed no enthusiasm for an increase in social security benefits for the elderly, which would have to be paid for by younger workers out of their current income. Workers indicated that they couldn't care less about more fringe benefits; it is money in the pay check that interests them. Furthermore, they go against their leaders on the issue of compulsory unionism, voting to retain Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the individual states to have their own right-to-work laws. The union leaders are still living in the intellectual climate of the Nineteen Thirties, putting their trust in the State and the Democratic Party. But the boys down below are restive—and who knows how their votes will go in 1968?

Item Two is the civil rights issue, which has lost its steam. The riots over "black power" which jump from city to city, hitting Cincinnati, Ohio, one week and Newark, New Jersey, or Hartford, Conn., the next, are certain to provoke a "law and order" vote in regions that are distant from the civil rights firing line. Since the white population is ninety per cent of the country, this could produce ponderable election-day shifts in areas whose view of ghetto problems, which are real enough, is becoming more and more obscured by ghetto violence. Barry Goldwater couldn't exploit the "crime in the streets" issue in 1964, for every important domestic question then was drowned out by the cacophony about the need for a safe finger on the "nuclear trigger." But nobody is going to mention the atom in 1968, so the need for "law and order" could very well be a dominant issue.

Item Three is the general ethnic vote, which is conditioned by the row over "black power" but also exists apart from it. The swift Israeli victory let Johnson off the hook in the matter of choosing whether or not to commit U. S. forces to still another world trouble spot. So the impact of the war never became a political problem in key areas like New York. The real Middle East crisis, however, may have just begun. To stay on top in Egypt, Nasser needs Arab unity—and the only way to produce it is to keep heating up the grievances against Israel. Peace along the Suez Canal would let Saudi Arabia and Kuwait return to their commercial preoccupation with the oil business, and the Arab cause in the UN would lose momentum. So, too, would Moscow's drive for naval bases in the Arab East. It isn't in the cards that either Nasser or the Kremlin will permit the Israelis to capitalize diplomatically or economically on their military victory. There will be pressure on Lyndon Johnson to do something about breaking the deadlock in order to let Israel go back to work, and there will be counter-pressure on him to stay aloof from any more foreign entanglements. Votes can be lost no matter what LBJ does.

Item Four is the general issue of competence. People who are willing to do a good day's work for a good day's pay get tired of being taxed and inflated to death by a government that can't make a success of urban renewal or keep commuter railroads running. A tax increase next year could really enrage the voters.

Item Five is, of course, the Vietnamese War. The public is behind the Administration in fighting it. But if the casualties grow and there is still no end in sight in 1968, and the horse on which the people are now betting doesn't even seem to be able to maintain himself in midstream, a fretting people could vote for change to a stronger animal.

War President Abe Lincoln won a second term in 1864, but after all, his opponent George McClellan, had been an ineffective general. What would have happened if a weak McClellan, not a strong Lincoln had been in the White House, and a strong candidate had been chosen to run against the incumbent? The adage about not changing horses might never have gained its present currency.

WALLABY, BABY!—An Australian baby wallaby, estimated at 5 to 6 months old, that came out of its mother's pouch about two months prematurely, is fed by Albuquerque, N.M., Zoo Director John Roth. The baby has been dubbed Pal Joey.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
Walter Denman, attendance officer for the Circleville School System, resigned his post after 17 years' service.

Oral Polio vaccine was being made available to all residents of the Circleville and Pickaway County area by the Medical Assn.

Marilyn Hay and Nancy Wilson were scheduled to leave for Ohio University to attend a Farm Bureau Conference.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Cash prizes amounting to $140 awaited winners in the flower show at the fair.

Violent windstorms and thunderstorms caused much damage in the city and county as one barn was struck by lightning and resulted in $20,000 damage.

Lee L. Lott, a man who specialized in wild driving to thrill patrons at the fair, said the Circleville drivers outclassed those in Columbus and other cities.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
An old show record drive was begun by the local post of the American Legion.

Thirty-seven Pickaway County farmers received loans on their wheat crops on the basis of $1.21 per bushel.

Ten eighth grade pupils received diplomas in graduation exercises at Wayne Twp. School.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Guests' Disrupt Quiet Apartment

DEAR ABBY: We are a retired couple with grown, married children. About a year ago we took a 3-year lease on an expensive apartment. The main reason we took it was because they won't rent to anyone with small children, and we like it nice and quiet.

Across the hall lives another retired couple. They have a married daughter who has two little wildcats for kids, and every time this daughter has a fight with her husband, she packs up and runs home to Mama with her wildcats. She has been at her mother's more than with her husband lately.

They just left yesterday after a six-day stay, which nearly drove my poor husband crazy. Those kids started yelling and screaming at 6 a.m. and didn't stop until 10 p.m. Now my neighbor tells me her daughter and her husband have smoked the peace pipe and are going on a second honeymoon for 3 weeks, so she (the grandmother) is keeping the wildcats.

I complained to my landlord, and he said the children are "guests," not tenants, so there's nothing he can do about it. Please give me some advice.

GOING CRAZY
DEAR GOING: Talk to a lawyer and let him look over your lease. If it has a loophole large enough for two wildcats to squeeze through for an indefinite period of time, you are out of luck. Otherwise you may have a case.

DEAR ABBY: I get sick to my stomach every time I look out of our window and see the little 6-year-old neighbor boy mowing their lawn with a power lawn mower. And with SNEAKERS on no less!

These people would not take kindly to any warnings from well-meaning neighbors.

Perhaps if you were to point out the dangers, it might get their attention, and save their child the loss of a foot. Or perhaps even his life. Thanks, Abby.

ABBY FAN
DEAR FAN: Small matter whether your neighbors would "take kindly" to your warnings. Warn them anyhow. And warn the boy, too.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is on the road 3 or 4 days a week, but he is always home on week-ends. We have a year old baby and another on the way. I have been warned by good friends that I had better travel with my husband if I want to save my marriage.

I suppose my mother would keep my child if I asked her to, but I don't think that would be right. And if I were to go on the road with my husband, it would be hard for me in my condition to go from hotel to hotel and do all that traveling. My husband thinks I should stay close to home. I would appreciate your advice.

MIXED UP
DEAR MIXED: I agree with your husband. I don't know what your "good friends" are trying to tell you, but if you have to go on the road with your husband in order to "save" your marriage, that road will be a blind alley.

Westchester County Is Invaded By Blight of Organized Crime

Editor's Note: Westchester County is synonymous with the good life, home to many of New York City's wealthier commuters. But federal authorities say organized crime has made inroads there, and many suburban areas face similar problems. Here is a report by an Associated Press reporter who visited the area.

By SALLY RYAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The ominous black shadow of organized crime has crept into green, grassy suburbia. Federal authorities say the Mafia helps take out the garbage, and they've charged a milkman with picking up policy bets along with empty bottles.

They have arrested 84 housewives accused of lending their telephones to bookies, and teenagers for using narcotics.

Not in a slum, but in Westchester County, the nation's second wealthiest county, where attorneys and advertising men and Wall Street brokers move when they have a child or two and a raise.

It is the home of the Rockefellers in rolling Pocantico Hills, of Joe Valachi, the Mafia tatter, of Reader's Digest and International Business Machines, of highbrow Sarah Lawrence College and of Yonkers Race way, where the trotters run.

In 1960, per capita income averaged $3,252, second only to Hinsdale, Colo., in the country. In one town, Scarsdale, it runs $30,000 a year a family. But eight per cent of Westchester's 212,157 families have incomes of less than $3,000 a year.

This combination of slums and well-manicured lawns offers green pastures for crime. Residents shift concern to good schools, a water supply, a place to park.

The problems in the urban areas of southern Westchester, bordering New York City's Bronx, are what the Big Town had a generation ago, and what sociologists say rural areas everywhere may expect in another generation if urban blight keeps creeping outward.

Gambling, numbers, policy, narcotics, racial and religious tensions — they all are here. And federal, state and county authorities have moved in, too. One of the first steps on the clattering commuter lines out of New York's Grand Central is Mount Vernon, a city of 73,000.

A sociologist, Dr. Bert E. Swanson, charges organized crime flourishes openly there and is strangling attempts to control narcotics, enforce housing codes and plan urban renewal and school integration projects.

Swanson set off an uproar last month when he said there was utter silence from officialdom surrounding the presence of the underworld in Mount Vernon.

County Executive Edwin G. Michaelian, a former interior decorator, says: "Years ago, early in the 20th century, there were reports the Mafia was operating in the county. If they are here now, the local police should search them out. We'll give them our support."

But crime increased 13 per cent from 1965 to 1966. Narcotics arrests have multiplied in the last three years, and more and more of the arrests are of white teenagers from good homes.

Sheriff John E. Hoy says the narcotics filter up from East Harlem and similar New York areas.

"We never thought we'd get it here," he said. "We never expected anything like this here in Westchester County. Our youngsters have educational opportunity, they come from fine homes, they have good religious backgrounds — and there it is."

This spring 84 women were arrested, most of them in the crowded southern area containing 80 per cent of Westchester's population, 90 per cent of its assessed valuation, and 30 per cent of its land area.

"The syndicate offered them $100 a week for the use of their phones," Hoy said. "The women were divorced, abandoned or on relief. Some were of questionable morals. They had no source of income."

"There is an amazing knowledge by the men on the other side of the law of these people in straightened circumstances. They prey on them."

They also prey on the legitimate businessman. The government estimates that 90 per cent of the business and industrial garbage in Westchester is handled by the Mafia.

Area Students On Honor List

Pickaway County is represented on the Ohio State University honor roll for the spring quarter.

Elaine Kurtz, 551 N. Pickaway St.; Glenn Reeser, Route 4; Ronald Seward, 120 Parkview St.; Donald Cook Jr., Williamsport; and Arleen Thomas, Route 1, Williamsport, were named to the honor roll for outstanding academic achievement.

To be eligible for the honor roll, students must have a 3.5 average or better, and be enrolled for at least 12 academic hours.

The independent garbage operators began losing out about 1950 when Nicholas (Cockeyed Nick) Rattenni and Phil Giamorino, a Yonkers, N.Y., bookmaker, bought control of Westchester Carting Co.

It now handles garbage for major companies in Westchester. And Rattenni, identified by the government as an associate of Frank Costello, is known as Westchester's garbage king and lives on the border of posh, respectable Bronxville.

In April, 1966, a federal grand jury investigated reports that the Mafia had used murder and mayhem to muscle in on the garbage business. The investigation began after a store owner protested the price of rubbish removal had soared from $8 a month to $100.

A month ago, Thomas M. Milo of the Bronx, vice president of Queens City Refuse Collectors of Mamaroneck and New Rochelle, was arrested on charges of threatening and intimidating a competitor.

Milo is the son of Sabato Milo, described by officials as a member of the Mafia's Vito Genovese family. Genovese currently is serving a 15-year prison term, but business goes on without him.

"We have driven the bookmaker out of the stores and off the streets. But it is becoming increasingly difficult," Sheriff Hoy says. "We cannot today apply to the court for wiretapping — one of the tools we need to combat crime."

"The laws have taken our powers away from us," he says. "Give us some laws with teeth."

The State Investigation Commission charged in 1963, after four weeks of hearings, that a $30-million-a-year gambling operation flourished in Westchester. It listed 218 illegal gambling premises in 16 communities.

"The evidence indicated quite clearly that illegal gambling flourished with the knowledge and protection of the police," said Goodman Sarachan, the commission chairman.

The commission made 48 recommendations, topped by a study of the feasibility of consolidating police functions at the county level. The county had—and still has—40 separate police forces with a total of about 2,200 men to cover 6 cities, 18 towns and 22 villages spread over 433 square miles.

The Republican-dominated County Board of Supervisors, made up of homerule representatives of the county's hamlets, pigeonholed the commission report. "We studied it," County Executive Michaelian says. "The sheriff, district attorney and I made some recommendations."

Many of the people of Westchester appear resigned to their neighbors and their activities.

"It's been going on a dozen years at least," said a Bronxville grandmother snug in a big white brick house. "At the clinic, the numbers runner used to come in every day. He was peg-legged, and kept the slips in the socket of his artificial leg. The numbers flourish here. People don't take it very seriously. How can they, when the state is running a lottery?"

It's Happy Birthday Today For Actor Walter Brennan

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Happy 73rd birthday today to Walter Brennan, still zestfully at work after 46 years as a Hollywood actor.

"Retire? Workin' is my hobby. It's far better than sittin' around waitin' for the undertaker. I thank God morning and night for my blessings," Brennan said in a pre-birthday interview.

Actually, his birthday falls on a regular day off from filming "The Guns of Will Sonnett," the third television series for the movies' only winner of three Oscars.

"It won't be no different than any other day off. I'll be doin' the same old thing-nothin'."

He has an 11-acre Moorpark spread of 1,200 grapefruit trees, and a mongrel dog named Pooch. In his 10-room house, on a knoll surrounded by the trees, he might play some tapes and records of light classics. Or sit down at his wife's electronic pipe organ, as he sometimes does, and "make train noises."

The rest of the week he'll be rising at 5:30 a.m. and making the 50-mile chauffeured drive to Paramount Studio. The reputed millionaire packs a lunchbox containing typically a chicken sandwich, fruitcake, milk and vitamins.

Lanky, pink-cheeked and gray-fringed, Brennan lay resting on a dressing-room couch. A horse, tripping in a scene, had just bruised his ribs, but X rays showed no fracture. Walter was thankful.

His worst accident: "Havin' my teeth kicked out by a guy in a movie fight."

He counted his blessings at 73: health, Ruth, the same wife for 47 years. "I never saw any one I liked as well, never chased, never cheated." Three children, 15 grandchildren, one great-grandchild.

Near Joseph, Ore., he owns a 12,000-acre cattle ranch and a 279-acre peas-and-wheat farm, both run by son Mike, 46, "a good cowman, with a wife and eight big, wonderfully well-mannered kids."

The New England accent of the Swampscott, Mass., native is still intact. Returning "in one piece" from World War I service in France, Brennan entered movies as an extra and in 12 years worked up to a $500-a-week character actor, "which is better than a kick in the fanny with a frozen mukluk."

His Oscars for supporting performances in "Come and Get It," "Kentucky" and "The Westerner" were followed by a nomination as the preacher in "Sergeant York." His television series were "The Real McCoys," six years, and "The Tycoon," one.

As the Old West's fastest gun in ABC-TV's "The Guns of Will Sonnett," he searches with his grandson, Dack Rambo, 23, for his missing son. As eagerly as any screen newcomer, Brennan detailed the plot—"pure drama, no laugh track."

'Starlighter' Sails Off On Voyage around World

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP)—Milburn Mears, wanderlust skipper with a desire to see the South Sea Islands again, sailed his tiny Starlighter down the Ohio River Monday, carrying his family to what hopefully will be a voyage around the world.

Mears, a typesetter from Springfield, Ohio, who served with the Marines in the South Pacific during World War II, sold the family home, car and other belongings before setting out on the venture Saturday with his wife, three children and a pet hamster.

"During the war the islands were pretty much closed off to our military, or we were busy chasing the enemy or being chased," Mears explained.

"They looked pretty friendly. I want to go back and explore them at my own leisure."

After reaching New Zealand, the family plans to chart a new course which will take them the rest of the way around the world.

Mears' wife, Dorothy, served with the Waves during the war, but never got closer to salt water than the Potomac River in Washington, D.C.

"I guess I'm still a dry land sailor but I think I can steer a true compass after completing two courses in oceanic and celestial navigation with the University of Tennessee," she said.

Children making the cruise are Martha, 10; Vikie, 15, and John, 18. Another son, Bruce, currently is doing a hitch in the Navy. Their mother will tutor them during the voyage.

Mears began considering the trip in 1945 when he and his wife lived at Mount Vernon, Ohio, but construction on the Starlighter didn't get under way until five years ago.

The 25-foot trimaran was fitted with two outriggers, giving the sailing craft more stability. A 12 horsepower outboard motor was added for maneuverability.

After several modifications resulting from trial runs on Lake Erie, the Starlighter slipped out of Sugar Bay, just east of Warsaw, Ky., several miles up the Ohio River from here.

Mears expects to sail the Ohio, and then the Mississippi River into New Orleans in about three weeks. Then the Starlighter will undergo a final shakedown cruise in the Gulf of Mexico.

Mears expects to pass through the Panama Canal late this summer and head into Pacific Waters.

'Starlighter' Sails Off On Voyage around World

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP)—Milburn Mears, wanderlust skipper with a desire to see the South Sea Islands again, sailed his tiny Starlighter down the Ohio River Monday, carrying his family to what hopefully will be a voyage around the world.

Mears, a typesetter from Springfield, Ohio, who served with the Marines in the South Pacific during World War II, sold the family home, car and other belongings before setting out on the venture Saturday with his wife, three children and a pet hamster.

"During the war the islands were pretty much closed off to our military, or we were busy chasing the enemy or being chased," Mears explained.

"They looked pretty friendly. I want to go back and explore them at my own leisure." After reaching New Zealand, the family plans to chart a new course which will take them the rest of the way around the world.

Mears' wife, Dorothy, served with the Waves during the war, but never got closer to salt water than the Potomac River in Washington, D.C.

"I guess I'm still a dry land sailor but I think I can steer a true compass after completing two courses in oceanic and celestial navigation with the University of Tennessee," she said.

Children making the cruise are Martha, 10; Vikie, 15, and John, 18. Another son, Bruce, currently is doing a hitch in the Navy. Their mother will tutor them during the voyage. Mears began considering the trip in 1945 when he and his wife lived at Mount Vernon, Ohio, but construction on the Starlighter didn't get under way until five years ago.

The 25-foot trimaran was fitted with two outriggers, giving the sailing craft more stability. A 12 horsepower outboard motor was added for maneuverability.

After several modifications resulting from trial runs on Lake Erie, the Starlighter slipped out of Sugar Bay, just east of Warsaw, Ky., several miles up the Ohio River from here.

Mears expects to sail the Ohio, and then the Mississippi River into New Orleans in about three weeks. Then the Starlighter will undergo a final shakedown cruise in the Gulf of Mexico.

Mears expects to pass through the Panama Canal late this summer and head into Pacific Waters.

Gustav C. Hertz' Family Tries To Learn His Fate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family of Gustav C. Hertz, a top U.S. official kidnapped by the Viet Cong in February 1965, says it will continue its efforts to determine whether Hertz still is alive.

"It's been a long, frustrating effort and, yes, he may be dead. But we are going to continue to do everything we can to free him or find out," promised Hertz' brother, A. Burke Hertz of suburban Falls Church, Va.

A Viet Cong broadcast last month indicated that Hertz had been executed. But Friday night, Burke Hertz got a cablegram from the Viet Cong, saying prisoners are treated well.

Although it did not mention Gustav Hertz, who worked for the Agency for International Development, Burke Hertz sur-

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Scattered thunderstorms were reported throughout the state Monday night and rather violent weather in sections of northern counties. Extensive damage was attributed to a tornado at Fairfield in Columbiana County and another tornado was reported at Tontogany in Wood County. Funnel clouds were sighted in Williams and Lucas counties and large hail fell at Defiance.

Near sunrise today thunderstorms were diminishing and temperatures were in the 60s and 70s Toledo had 63, Cleveland 65, Cincinnati 71, Marietta 72 and Columbus 69.

A cold front stretched across extreme Northern Ohio this morning had become nearly stationary. The threat of additional showers and thunderstorms will exist through Wednesday. Temperatures today and Wednesday should be in the 80s. And most overnight lows will be in the 60s.

FORECASTS

OHIO—Partly cloudy extreme north tonight and variable cloudiness and scattered thunderstorms remainder of the state. Less humid and not quite so warm north. Low tonight near 60 extreme north, in the 60s elsewhere. Partly cloudy Wednesday with scattered afternoon thundershowers west and south. Not much temperature change.

CENTRAL OHIO—Variable cloudiness with chance of scattered thundershowers through Wednesday. High Wednesday mid 80s. Low tonight upper 60s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO—Variable with scattered thundershowers through Wednesday. High Wednesday upper 80s. Low tonight upper 60s.

NORTHWEST OHIO—Fair tonight, low 58-64. Wednesday partly cloudy with afternoon thundershowers through Wednesday. Lows around 70.

mised the cablegram meant his brother had not been executed—that he either is alive or had died of starvation or illness in a prison camp.

The State Department was unable to give any indication of Hertz' status. Hertz' family says all efforts so far to obtain his release, including payment of ransom or through a prisoner exchange, have failed.

In another development, some of the college students working in Congress this summer have charged they are being threatened with the loss of jobs because of effort to express disagreement with the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy.

Five of the 1,300 students in the summer intern program said in a statement Saturday they are "dismayed that a group of responsible students should face recrimination for expressing their views on Vietnam."

The controversy arose last week when Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., told the House some of the student workers were "hatching a scheme to undercut and embarrass the administration."

Michel said about 20 students were trying to get other interns to sign a letter to President Johnson opposing his Vietnam policy and urging him to de-escalate the war.

The five interns said Saturday Michel's speech had caused many students to ask to have their names removed from the letter because they were told they would lose their jobs if they signed.

Delinquent Child Has Legal Rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Parents and a delinquent child who faces commitment to an institution must be advised of the child's right to counsel, Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled today.

If the parents cannot afford an attorney, juvenile court must notify them and the child that one will be appointed, although Saxbe said Ohio has no law permitting such court to pay counsel named to represent indigents.

The opinion went to Marion County Prosecutor Robert O. Stout.

Racial Trouble Speeds Riot - Prevention Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Racial riots raging around the country have speeded action in the Ohio General Assembly on bills aimed at preventing and handling such crises in Ohio.

The House gave prompt and solid approval Monday night to one riot bill and called for a vote today on another to prevent what one lawmaker called "these veritable wars in the streets."

Approved Monday night was a measure which clarifies the authority of the governor to activate the National Guard and to give limited civil immunity to guardsmen on riot duty.

Today's bill would permit police to cordon off trouble areas and halt the sale of guns and ammunition along with dynamite and "other dangerous items."

Racial trouble broke out in Toledo Monday night.

Rep. Carl B. Stokes D-44 Cleveland, Negro candidate for Cleveland's Democratic mayoralty nomination, noted that the National Guard measure gives the governor authority to act "not only to suppress rioting but also to prevent it."

Stokes said the measure "does have extreme language but it is needed to deal with an extreme situation—a situation tearing at the very fabric of our society. This is to deal with veritable wars going on in the streets."

Rep. William F. Bowmen D-69, Cincinnati, another Negro House member, expressed reservations about and sought to delete the section of the bill giving guardsmen immunity from civil actions resulting from the conduct of their duty.

"As a witness to this sort of rioting, I have seen some considerable abuses of authority, Bowen said.

Although Bowen's amendment went down to overwhelming defeat, he voted for the bill. The only two dissenters were Reps. C.J. McLin Jr. D-58 Dayton and Edwin T. Hofstetter R-36 Geauga.

In other developments as the House and Senate opened their 29th work week, the House voted 63-21 to require county commissioners to advertise for bids on all purchases above $4,000. A floor amendment increased the figure from $2,000.

More than 90 minutes of debate preceded passage of the bill which now goes to the House.

Hofstetter led the attack on the measure. He said the bill "questions the integrity of every county commissioner in the state although newspapers hinting of fraud can produce no evidence of it in a single county."

Rep. Robert E. Levitt R-91 Canton, Judiciary chairman and chief sponsor, said testimony before his committee indicated "a great many abuses in some counties" and he noted that competitive bidding is required on state purchases and also on those at almost every other level of government.

The Senate re-referred to the Ways and Means Committee the omnibus bill embodying the administration's school foundation and higher education program which would cost $1.2 billion in the 1967-69 biennium. The committee is considering a tax increase package to make up about $256 million of the amount not included in the executive budget.

Republicans seeking to wrap the school and tax proposals into a single bill cited Monday an 111-year-old Ohio Supreme Court decision they claimed will make the package deal possible.

The decision said in part that a constitutional ban against more than one subject in a bill "was directory and the supervision of its observance must be left to the General Assembly."

Republicans want an omnibus bill because minority Democrats then would have no chance to oppose tax increases and at the same time urge educational improvements.

The Senate, in other actions, approved House bills setting a procedure for collection of support payments by way of wage attachment and extending workmen's compensation coverage to firemen disabled by occupational disease.

The House completed passage of Senate bills revising laws on maximum weights of trucks—including some increases—and providing limited access to information on original birth certificates.

Cincinnati Reds Lose Exhibition Game Monday

ATLANTA (AP) — Following a "good" victory over Philadelphia Sunday and an exhibition game loss Monday, the Cincinnati Reds open a four-game series tonight with the fourth-place Atlanta Braves, who trail the third-place Reds by only half a game.

Manager Dave Bristol will send rookie Gary Nolan, 8-2, against Pat Jarvis who boasts an impressive 10-3 record and "we need some big hits from our guys," Bristol said.

The Reds had dropped four straight until they registered a 2-1 comeback triumph over the Phils.

"We're still in the thick of this thing and we're going to stay there," said Bristol despite the Reds' weak hitting and sloppy fielding in the past few games.

In the doubleheader Wednesday night, Bristol has named fireballers Mel Queen and Jim Moloney to face the hard-hitting Braves.

Monday the Reds stopped an abbreviated exhibition game 3-0 to the Baltimore Orioles in the annual Hall of Fame Game at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Starter and loser Billy McCool yielded all three Orioles runs—accounted for by home runs—while the Reds could manage only three singles.

January Doesn't Think There's a Golf 'Big 3'

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Don January, the new PGA champion, says he doesn't think there's any "Big Three" in golf.

After his two-stroke victory in the PGA title playoff with Don Massengale Monday, January was asked if he felt Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player had a stranglehold on the game.

"There's no such thing as the Big Three," January responded. "There are dozens of players who are capable of winning any of our Big Three championships—the Open, PGA and Masters."

The lean Texan, who lost to Jerry Barber in the PGA's only other playoff in 1961, said he felt he "had played good enough many times to win the Open, Masters or PGA."

The 37-year-old Dallas golfer, insurance businessman, said the loss to Barber taught him a lesson and contributed to his victory over the 7,436-yard par 72 Columbine Course where he shot 69 to Massengale's 71.

"I thought I could play Jerry head-to-head, but I lost," January said. "So when I started the playoff here I set my target on a sub-par score."

He pegged the 10th hole as the turning point. After turning the front nine in par 36, even with Massengale, January sank a 30-foot birdie putt from the fringe.

January said he was intending to lay the putt up to the cup "and when it rolled in, I was as surprised as anyone. That seemed to release me."

Massengale said his own 25-foot putt on the 10th "just lipped

the cup and from then on it seemed like January did everything just a little better than I did."

January, who failed to qualify for Ryder Cup team this year, went to the bank today with $25,000 first prize to soothe any hurt feelings. Massengale collected $15,000.

Herald Clinches Little League Major Crown

Herald Hawks, the only undefeated team in the Circleville Youth Baseball Program, copped the championship of the Little League Majors with a 11-0 win over Purina Monday.

Elks topped American Legion,

10-4, and Coke edged Bingman, 7-6, in other play.

The Hawks post a record of 12-0, four full games ahead of second place Bingman, 8-4. There are only three games remaining for each team in the league.

Dave Truex pitched the Hawks' win in style, walking one, fanning 15 and allowing only two hits. Truex, a member of the Little League All-Stars, has been a standout in the Hawks' line up.

IN EIGHT league pitching performances Truex has walked 19, fanned 96 and allowed 20 hits, including a no-hitter. He has also hurled a no-hit game for the All-Stars.

At the plate he has smacked 10 homers and doubled four times.

The Hawks slammed 15 hits in their Monday night win. Gary Mogan, Dana Carley and Johnny Walker homered, Walker's coming with the bases full.

Tom Shea and Mogan doubled for the champs.

Tim Burns doubled for Purina's only extra baser.

Allan Hawks and Bill LaGrew combined on Purina mound, five and fanning six.

DAVE Webb picked up the win in the Elks' mound, walking one, fanning eight and scattering eight hits.

Mike Goldsberry pitched for American Legion, striking out 13 and allowing nine hits.

Webb helped his own cause by homering. Bud Ferguson and Kris Kline each doubled twice for the winners.

Goldsberry tagged a homer and a double for the Legion. Craig Lund tripled.

Less than two weeks of action remain, stated Thomas. Most teams, however, will conclude their season this week.

In other races, Arledge was eighth with O. C.'s Berrymite in the second, sixth with Harry the First in the third, and sixth with Mr. Captain Gee in eighth.

January Doesn't Think There's a Golf 'Big 3'

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Don January, the new PGA champion, says he doesn't think there's any "Big Three" in golf.

After his two-stroke victory in the PGA title playoff with Don Massengale Monday, January was asked if he felt Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player had a stranglehold on the game.

"There's no such thing as the Big Three," January responded. "There are dozens of players who are capable of winning any of our Big Three championships—the Open, PGA and Masters."

The lean Texan, who lost to Jerry Barber in the PGA's only other playoff in 1961, said he felt he "had played good enough many times to win the Open, Masters or PGA."

The 37-year-old Dallas golfer-insurance businessman, said the loss to Barber taught him a lesson and contributed to his victory over the 7,436-yard par 72 Columbine Course where he shot 69 to Massengale's 71.

"I thought I could play Jerry head-to-head, but I lost," January said. "So when I started the playoff here I set my target on a sub-par score."

He pegged the 10th hole as the turning point. After turning the front nine in par 36, even with Massengale, January sank a 30-foot birdie putt from the fringe. January said he was intending to lay the putt up to the cup "and when it rolled in, I was as surprised as anyone. That seemed to release me."

Massengale said his own 25-foot putt on the 10th "just lipped

the cup and from then on it seemed like January did everything just a little better than I did."

January, who failed to qualify for Ryder Cup team this year, went to the bank today with $25,000 first prize to soothe any hurt feelings. Massengale collected $15,000.

19. Public Links Tourney

By HAL PARIS
DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Public Links Golf Tournament takes on added significance this year with defending champion Lulu Sabotin in the spotlight.

Sabotin, the Warren fire captain who copped the Ohio amateur a week ago, heads up a sophisticated field of 240 fee-paying golfers.

Among the entries are three other former Publink titlists, Art Todd of Columbus, the 1959 victor; Joe Lazor of Cleveland, who won in 1964, and Don Nist of Akron, the 1965 king.

The 37-year-old easy-going Sabotin is the man to watch. He could become the first performer ever to capture both the Amateur and the Public Links in one season.

Many veteran observers already feel that Sabotin is the best amateur golfer in the Buckeye State. He has all the shots, the temperament and the tenacity to hang in when things look bleak.

But winning the Aug. 1-4 tournament on the Auglaize Golf Course won't be easy pickings. Competition in the 72-hole medal play event is stiff and four good rounds are needed to prevail.

Joe Patton, the congenial secretary of the Ohio Public Links Golfers Association, sees a wide open battle for top honors.

"I figure a score of 275 will win it," Patton said. That score would be 13 strokes under par on the 6,900-yard, par 72 Defiance layout.

And while Patton respects the ability of Sabotin, Todd, Lazor, Nist and other top-notchers in the field, he likes 52-year-old Joe Campana of Warren in a darkhorse role.

"Campana can do it," Patton noted. "He's a fine player and last month played the Auglaize course in an eight-under 64."

The bulky field will be trimmed to 120 after 36 holes and then to the 60 low scores and ties after 54 for the Aug. 4 finale. City team championships will be based on the first 36 holes.

Among the trophies to be Rhodes Appreciation Award; the Ray Pennell Sportsmanship Award; The Ohio Public Golfer Sportsman Award and the Public Links Hall of Fame Award.

Culp Pitches Cubs Back to Life

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Culp has parlayed a change of scenery and a change of pace into a change of direction... for himself and the non-stop Chicago Cubs.

Culp, the former Philadelphia fireballer who learned to pull the string on his fastball while sitting at Leo Durocher's elbow, pitched the Cubs back into a share of the National League lead Monday night with a five-hit 3-1 victory over St. Louis.

The victory, ninth for the Cubs in their last 11 games, pulled them even with the Cardinals going into tonight's second game of a three-game summit series at St. Louis.

Houston nipped Philadelphia 2-1 in 11 innings behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar and Los Angeles shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 in Monday's only other major league action.

Culp, who won seven games for the Phillies last season, squared his 1967 record at 8-8 by pitching out of a sixth-inning jam, sweating out a 51-minute rain delay and then knocking off the last nine Cardinals he faced.

Baseball Game Or Prizefight? Hard To Tell!

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Cuellar, the Houston Astros' southpaw who beat Philadelphia 2-1 Monday night with an 11-inning two-hitter, still was seeing after the game because of a ninth inning run-in with Phillies Manager Gene Mauch.

Cuellar and Mauch almost came to blows while the Phils were batting in the ninth, but players from both teams intervened and the game was resumed after a brief delay.

At the end of the half-inning, after the visitors had tied the score with an unearned run, Cuellar and Phils first baseman Bill White started for each other. Both benches emptied again and the two players were separated.

"He (Mauch) called me names," Cuellar said. "I just wanted him to let me alone and let me do my job. I wanted to hit him in the mouth."

"Cuellar got what I wanted... the game," countered Mauch, who had stormed from the Phils' dugout as Cuellar pointed a finger at him during the angry exchange. "I didn't call him anything he didn't call me. I would do it again if it would win the game."

Astros third baseman Ed Mathews, who grabbed Mauch each time the benches emptied, said the Phils pilot said things that were "unprintable."

"Mauch always tries to upset the pitcher, but he was too far this time," Mathews said.

The Cubs broke in front against St. Louis starter Larry Jaster in the second inning when Ron Santo singled, Ernie Banks doubled home a run and, after a walk and Clarence Jones' infield hit filled the bases, reliever Jack Lamabe walked another run across.

Singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams plus Santo's run-scoring ground out boosted the lead to 3-0 in the fifth.

Cuellar, who struck out 12, including five of the first seven men he faced, gave up a bad-hop double by Cookie Rojas in the fifth inning, then held the Phils hitless until Bill White singled in the 11th.

The Houston southpaw also scored the winning run in the bottom of the 11th, drawing a walk and moving around to third on a sacrifice and an error before Jim Wynn's single broke the 1-1 deadlock.

Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring single in the ninth lifted the Dodgers past the Pirates after they had wiped out a 3-0 Pittsburgh lead. Dick Schofield, who had three hits, doubled a run home in the fifth and scored on Willie Davis' single to tie it 3-3.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cleveland Indians open a four-game series against the American League-leading Chicago White Sox with a two-night double-header here tonight.

Sam McDowell and Ed Connelly are scheduled to start for the Indians, Wilbur Wood and Bruce Howard for the White Sox.

Steve Hargan and Luis Tiant are expected to follow as the Cleveland starters in the series, which ends Thursday night.

The Indians, who have lost four straight games and nine of their last 11, will open a weekend series in Cleveland Friday night against the Baltimore Orioles.

The Tribe was idle Monday.

pitched the Cubs back into a share of the National League lead Monday night with a five-hit 3-1 victory over St. Louis.

The victory, ninth for the Cubs in their last 11 games, pulled them even with the Cardinals going into tonight's second game of a three-game summit series at St. Louis.

Houston nipped Philadelphia 2-1 in 11 innings behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar and Los Angeles shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 in Monday's only other major league action.

Culp, who won seven games for the Phillies last season, squared his 1967 record at 8-8 by pitching out of a sixth-inning jam, sweating out a 51-minute rain delay and then knocking off the last nine Cardinals he faced.

Army Contract Is Questioned By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee charges the Army with questionable awarding of a helicopter contract and says the Navy and Air Force should at least temporarily take on the research and development of Army aircraft.

The Armed Services subcommittee mentioned interservice jealousies, close personal relationships between Army and industry representatives, and lavish entertainment as it attacked awarding of the contract to Hughes Tool Co.

It also said in the report released Sunday after a 10-month probe that Hughes might lose $40 million on the deal.

"Personal feelings and interservice jealousies played an overriding part in the formative stages of this procurement and directed it on a course which eventually led to the Hughes Tool Co.," said the report from the subcommittee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va.

"The existence of close personal relationships between the Army and industry representatives resulted in departures from established procurement procedures and placed the Army in the position of having many of its decisions suspect."

It said the Air Force and Navy should handle research and development of Army aircraft "until the competence of the Army in this area has been firmly established."

The subcommittee said the Army figured Hughes would lose about $10,000 on each of 1,000 helicopters but "it now appears that the loss may eventually reach three to four times this amount before the contract is completed."

When the contract would be completed was another question. The schedule called for 130 of the light observation helicopters to be delivered by last April. Only 39 had been delivered then.

The report said the implication during hearings was that high prices on later sales would erase the Hughes loss. The company denied it would recover its loss in later Army contracts.

The Army told Hughes it expected to be paid about $300 per aircraft per day for every day the helicopters were late.

lent with 49.98 average; marring was very desirable, also, said White.

"All in all, we felt that the bull is doing an excellent job and can certainly hold his own in any competition," White said.

Shorthorn Bull First Certified

Oakwood Conductor, a Polled Shorthorn bull sold to Armour and Co. by C. B. Teegardin and sons of Oakwood Stock Farms, Ashville, has become the first and only bull of that breed to be named a certified meat sire by Performance Registry International.

Data sent to Teegardin by Armour and Co. showed that the ribeye area of the calves of the bull averaged 2.21 square inches per hundredweight.

R. H. White, director of Beef Cattle Improvement Research, stated that the company feels anything over two square inches is "very good." White said very few cattle reach the 2.2 category.

Cutability was listed as excellent.

3 from County On OU Dean's List

Among 1,279 named to Ohio University's dean's list for the second semester of 1966-67 academic year were three Pickaway County students.

Patricia L. Hines, 920 Lincoln Drive, James R. Wilson, Route 1, and Michael D. Neff, Route 2, Ashville, were named to the elite list.

First semester freshmen must maintain a 3.0 or better average, while second semester freshmen and upperclassmen must have a 3.3 average to be named.

Students named to the dean's list represented approximately 10 per cent of the total enrollment.

Paratroopers Are Ordered....

"We were pinned down," he said. "Then the guardsmen pulled out, so I got out of there. Their radio told them: 'Shoot anything that moves.'"

Guard Lt. Richard Starr, 30, Grand Rapids, led the attack on a rundown hotel, lifting the siege on the 5th Precinct.

"They found nothing," he said. "There was someone up there, but they got away."

The first wave of paratroopers was deployed on the East Side.

Associated Press newsmen touring the area reported devastation equal or surpassing that on the near West Side and Northwest Side where whole sections of blocks, 10 to 15 at a time in some areas, were torched by looters and arsonists Sunday and Monday and burned or smoldered into today.

Firemen harrassed by snipers — at least one was killed by gunfire — and short-handed as the blazes continued to spread, were forced to let some of the smaller fires burn unchecked.

Arrests stood at 2,000 with 300 booked already and hundreds more in custody. Bond was set at $200,000 for two accused snipers at a pre-dawn arraignment.

"Pillage, looting, murder and arson have nothing to do with civil rights," President Johnson told a national television audience when he announced the order to move in federal troops Monday night.

Earlier in the day he had dispatched a brigade of the 101st Airborne, the famed "Screaming Eagle" Division of World War II, from Ft. Campbell, Ky., and a brigade of the 82nd Airborne from Ft. Bragg, N.C., to Selfridge Air Force Base northeast of the city.

The President said he acted in answer to a plea from Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh who said the situation was out of hand.

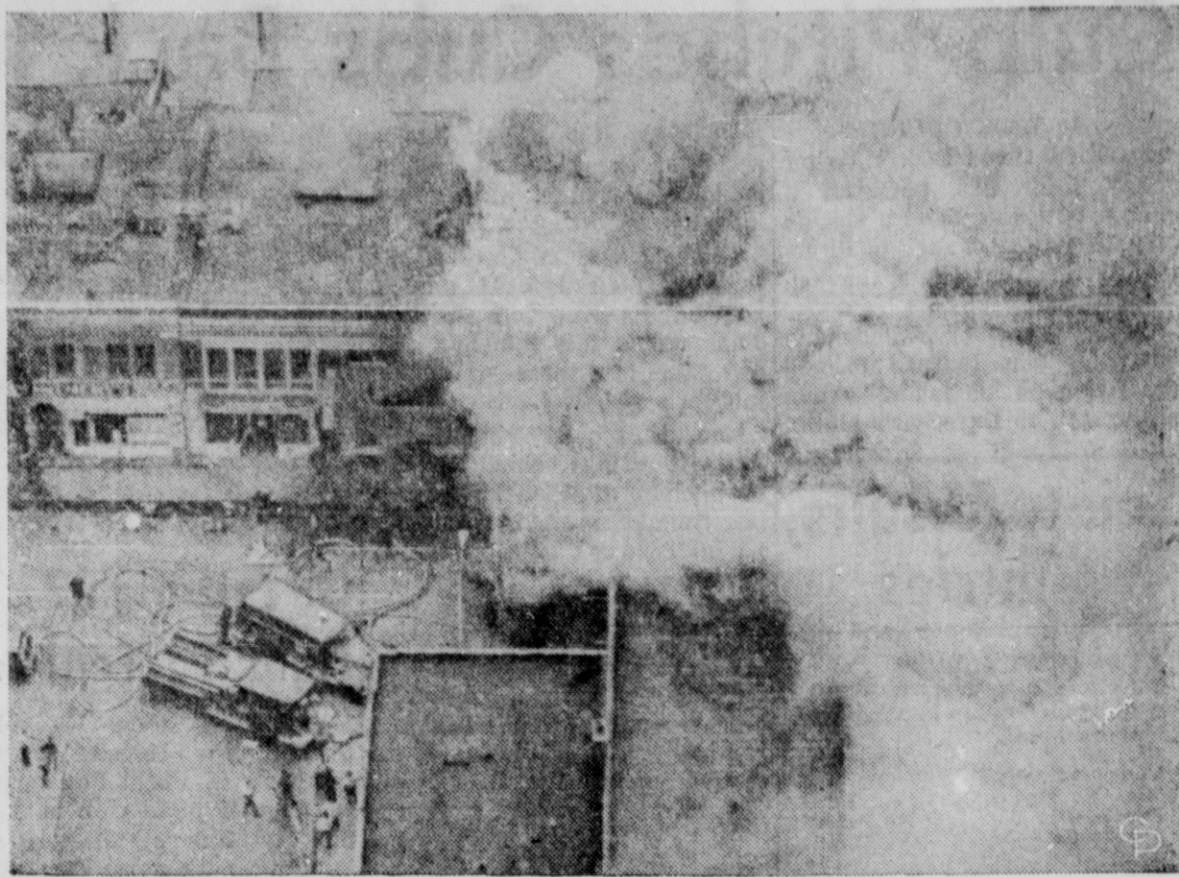

Johnson also sent Cyrus Vance, special assistant to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, to Selfridge to assess the situation.

The final order to move out the GIs came on Vance's recommendation. Johnson federalized the Michigan National Guard at the same time.

Mayor Cavanagh, shortly before Johnson's order for the troops to move, said the city "looked like Berlin in 1945 or Warsaw after the ghetto uprising. This is an explosion of the completely lawless element."

By today most officials were making the same comment — that the riots lacked organization and there was no apparent evidence that skilled agitators were present.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

BUILDING BURNS IN RIOT-TORN DETROIT — Smoke billows from a building set aflame by rioting Negroes in Detroit's West Side Negro section, where entire blocks were burning as 8,000 National Guardsmen, backed by tanks and police, battled snipers.

Looting that continued was shared by whites and Negroes alike and carried on good naturedly.

Although many areas are predominately Negro, they are sprinkled with white families who have lived in harmony with Negroes and for the most part still do.

With these factors, plus high employment, due to the auto industry, the hopscotch character of erupting violence that has covered an area nearly one-fourth the size of the city makes Detroit's current upheaval unique.

Hardly any of the city was immune from some sort of vandalism which stretched from the smart New York shops downtown, where some windows were broken, 10 miles to beyond the city limits.

The downtown area was deserted Monday as banks, many stores, schools, businesses and universities closed. Deliveries also were halted. By Monday night hotel and restaurants were running out of food.

Bars, liquor stores, movie houses and all places of entertainment were ordered closed by the mayor and governor. At 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. curfew cleared the streets at night.

Business slowed to a virtual standstill. The auto industry closed its Detroit plants after thousands of workers failed to report for their jobs.

Besides the killing of the two Negroes and the incident of sniper fire, police at Pontiac, a city of 82,000 about 25 miles north, reported some firebombing and window breaking in a small area.

There were at least 16 arrests.

Roving bands of Negroes injured 13 people at Grand Rapids, a city of 202,000 which is 150 miles northwest of Detroit. Negroes threw rocks and other missiles and police said officers were fired on twice.

At Flint, 60 miles north, gangs of Negroes roamed the streets and police broke up gatherings on street corners.

Detroit's riots are the worst outbreak since 1943 when more than 30 were killed and hundreds injured in a racial explosion touched off by the rumor that whites had thrown a Negro woman from a bridge.

Firebombing broke out last summer on the East Side and lasted four days.

Arrests stood at 2,900 with 300 booked already and hundreds more in custody. Bond was set at $200,000 for two accused snipers at a pre-dawn arraignment.

"Pillage, looting, murder and arson have nothing to do with civil rights," President Johnson told a national television audience when he announced the order to move in federal troops Monday night.

Earlier in the day he had dispatched a brigade of the 101st Airborne, the famed "Screaming Eagle" Division of World War II, from Ft. Campbell, Ky., and a brigade of the 82nd Airborne from Ft. Bragg, N.C., to Selfridge Air Force Base northeast of the city.

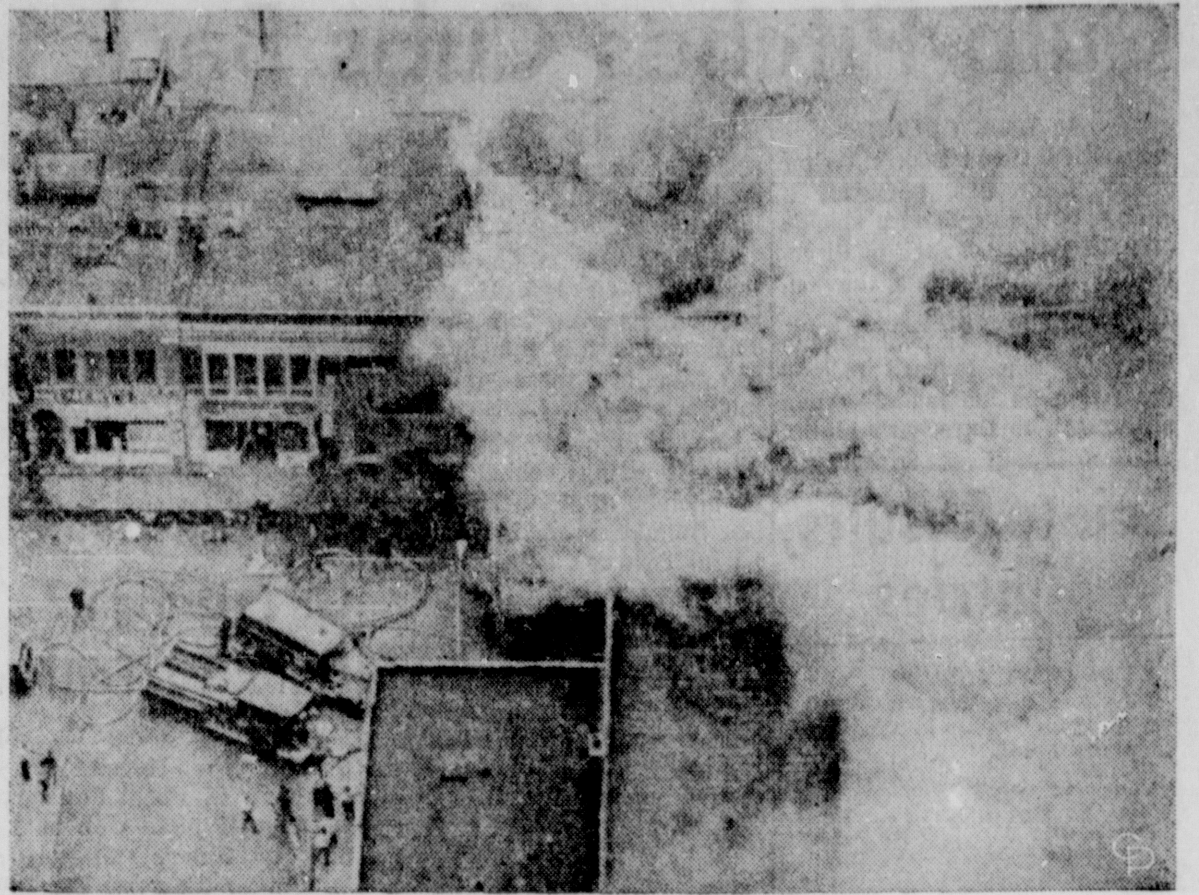

The President said he acted in answer to a plea from Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh who said the situation was out of hand.

Johnson also sent Cyrus Vance, special assistant to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, to Selfridge to assess the situation.

The final order to move out the GIs came on Vance's recommendation. Johnson federalized the Michigan National Guard at the same time.

Mayor Cavanagh, shortly before Johnson's order for the troops to move, said the city "looked like Berlin in 1945 or Warsaw after the ghetto uprising. This is an explosion of the completely lawless element."

By today most officials were making the same comment — that the riots lacked organization and there was no apparent evidence that skilled agitators were present.

BUILDING BURNS IN RIOT-TORN DETROIT — Smoke billows from a building set aflame by rioting Negroes in Detroit's West Side Negro section, where entire blocks were burning as 8,000 National Guardsmen, backed by tanks and police, battled snipers.

Looting that continued was shared by whites and Negroes alike and carried on good naturedly.

Although many areas are predominately Negro, they are sprinkled with white families who have lived in harmony with Negroes and for the most part still do.

With these factors, plus high employment, due to the auto industry, the hopscotch character of erupting violence that has covered an area nearly one-fourth the size of the city makes Detroit's current upheaval unique.

Hardly any of the city was immune from some sort of vandalism which stretched from the smart New York shops downtown, where some windows were broken, 10 miles to beyond the city limits.

The downtown area was deserted Monday as banks, many stores, schools, businesses and universities closed. Deliveries also were halted. By Monday night hotel and restaurants were running out of food.

Bars, liquor stores, movie houses and all places of entertainment were ordered closed by the mayor and governor. At 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. curfew cleared the streets at night.

Business slowed to a virtual standstill. The auto industry closed its Detroit plants after thousands of workers failed to report for their jobs.

Besides the killing of the two Negroes and the incident of sniper fire, police at Pontiac, a city of 82,000 about 25 miles north, reported some firebombing and window breaking in a small area.

There were at least 16 arrests.

Roving bands of Negroes injured 13 people at Grand Rapids, a city of 202,000 which is 150 miles northwest of Detroit. Negroes threw rocks and other missiles and police said officers were fired on twice.

At Flint, 60 miles north, gangs of Negroes roamed the streets and police broke up gatherings on street corners.

Detroit's riots are the worst outbreak since 1943 when more than 30 were killed and hundreds injured in a racial explosion touched off by the rumor that whites had thrown a Negro woman from a bridge.

Firebombing broke out last summer on the East Side and lasted four days.

Secretary Wirtz Rescues Girl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz helped rescue a young girl by leaping into the Cacapon River in West Virginia and keeping her afloat.

The incident Sunday involved Debbie Dolan, 12, of Winchester, Va., who was swimming in the stream with two older sisters.

Wirtz stripped to his shorts when he saw the girl having trouble and helped Debbie stay afloat in deep water while her sisters fetched a float.
